Report on Low Performers Program – MBBS 2024 Batch

In order to provide academic support and improve the performance of students who were struggling in the MBBS 2024 batch, a Low Performers Program was initiated by the Department of Physiology in coordination with the Departments of Anatomy and Biochemistry.

Students who scored less than 50% in the Part Completion Test were identified and included in the program for additional academic assistance. Dedicated special classes were conducted on alternate Fridays from 12:00 pm to 1:00 pm. These sessions were jointly conducted by faculty from Physiology, Anatomy, and Biochemistry. The classes focused on reinforcing fundamental concepts, clarifying doubts, and offering problem-solving strategies. Following the intervention, the students who participated in the program showed notable improvement in their academic performance in the subsequent internal examinations. The program served its objective of strengthening the students' understanding and confidence.

A special PTA meeting was held on 16th June 2025, where parents of the low-performing students were invited to discuss their ward's academic progress. Dr. Bindu C. B., Head of the Department of Physiology, attended the meeting and provided valuable insights into each student's academic status and the support provided through the program. The session also facilitated collaborative strategies between faculty and parents to continue guiding the students. This program reflects the department's commitment to ensuring the academic success and overall development of all students, particularly those requiring additional support.
